OMB rejects amendment

The Ontario Municipal Board has rejected one of a number of amendments to the restricted area by-law of Stanhope Township. The decision follows a public hearing September 24 in Stanhope and was given by D. H. McRobb of the OMB.

He ruled that the proposal which would have allowed private permanent dwellings to be located on private roads be disallowed. The decision leaves the township in a unique situation.

According to the township's by-law governing zoning, permanent dwellings are permitted on a public shoreline road or on islands but not along private roadways. At the same time, the by-law does permit seasonal residential housing on private rights-of-way and states that these seasonal residences or cottages may be occupied throughout the year. In effect, while the OMB may have quashed the original intention of the request for the by-law amendment, it has left the door open for the development of permanent residence on private roads to take place anyway.

Reeve Jim Harrison summed it up at the November 1 meeting of the council when he said, "The ruling of the Ontario Municipal Board really doesn't matter in the end. Anyone wishing to build a permanent home on a private road need only apply for a permit to build a cottage and then live in the structure all year round. There is no restriction saying how elaborate or well-constructed a cottage must be, so presumably it could be built to standards that would make the occupants more than comfortable for the winter months." He noted that occupancy of a cottage on a twelve month basis is permitted under the township's by-law.

The township has a very high ratio of seasonal residents, some two-thirds of the entire population. With this in mind the township has been permitted by the Ontario Municipal Board to allow the establishment of permanent and seasonal homes on all shoreline property zoned for residential purposes. This situation is unique within the province.

However, due to an oversight in the zoning by-law, the provisions were not extended to property abutting private roads. In those cases only seasonal dwelling units were permitted.

The meeting November 1 was told that the township has about 60 kilometres of private roadways.

During the OMB hearing in September, the only objection to the proposal came from the Ministry of Housing. A Housing representative argued that private roads are not as well maintained as municipal roads, that, particularly in the winter, the roads can become blocked and that regular access could not be guaranteed by the municipality for fire, ambulance, school bus and other necessary services.

The township countered at the time by pointing out that most of those people wishing to locate a permanent residence on the private roads would be retired couples without children. It was suggested that they would not require daily access and that the purchasers could be made aware of the potential problems and risks of living on a private road.

The township spokesman argued that because of the special nature of the township, and the fact that permanent residences are permitted on shoreline property abutting public roads, that the OMB allow the amendment to be adopted.

D. H. McRobb of the Ontario Municipal Board agreed with the Ministry of Housing representative. He said that while people may be willing to accept the risks of living on a private road initially, "it is often surprising what short memories they have." He said that not only will the residents start demanding services from the municipality, but, "the municipality has a responsibility for the safety and convenience of its inhabitants."

Man dies in hunting incident

A hunting accident November 7 has taken the life of a young Wilberforce man.

Timothy Kevin Oram, 21, was killed instantly when shot accidentally by a hunting companion, Michael F. Irvine, 26, also of Wilberforce. The mishap took place at approximately 8:30 a.m. in a cedar swamp about one kilometre southwest of Wilberforce.

According to police, Irvine and Oram were moving through the bush when Irvine caught a glimpse of something white through the trees and fired a single shot. The bullet struck Oram on the left side, exiting on the right side of the body.

Coroner, Doctor Harry Good attended at the scene of the accident and pronounced the man dead. A post mortem was held November 8 at the Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Police have indicated that charges will likely be laid.

Constable Gary Chapman and Corporal Ron Foran investigated the incident.

Bridge data still in doubt

Stanhope Township council is still trying to obtain some solid information on the old Highway 35 bridge at Buttermilk Falls.

The township has written to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications requesting any recent engineering assessments of the structure. The Ontario government department responded that the bridge was no longer their property. When the new span over the river was installed the old structure was turned over to the Trent-Severn Waterway Authority, operated by Parks Canada, a federal agency.

A letter to Parks Canada asking for information on the safety of the bridge was read at the November 1 meeting of the council. It stated that while the authority was responsible for the structure, it did not have any engineering studies to indicate its current state. The letter from Parks Canada said the authority considered the bridge to be "closed to traffic".

The council is concerned over the strength of the bridge since that location is used by the Stanhope fire brigade for refilling the tank truck and pumper. If the bridge was structurally sound it would be more convenient for the trucks to drive in from one side and out the other when being refilled. At the moment the vehicles must back into position for the refilling operation. The manoeuvre could become hazardous during the winter months.

It was pointed out that the Trent-Severn Waterway Authority had placed a row of posts across the entrance to one side of the bridge, effectively blocking vehicular access. One councillor complained that these posts were placed on township property without the council's agreement.

The council agreed, once again to attempt to get some information on the structural soundness of the bridge from the MTC in the hope that it might be opened for the use of the fire brigade. It was suggested at the meeting, that if necessary, the township could put a new top on the bridge to bring it up to acceptable standards.

Taxation seminar

The Federal Business Development Bank in its continuing effort to help small businesses in a number of meaningful ways is offering a one day Management Seminar on Tuesday, December 4th at the PineStone Inn. This seminar will deal specifically with Taxation and emphasizes that "Income Taxes should rightfully be kept to a minimum".

It may seem like an unlikely situation to many that a government agency would be prepared to help them avoid paying taxes, but that is precisely the case. Many small businesses are not aware of the best way to avoid heavy taxation and how to deal with the paperwork involved. This seminar will deal in some detail with commuting income from a business, and from an individual, the advantages and disadvantages of incorporating your business, payments of dividends, and the employment of a spouse. There will be ample time to deal with specific questions from participants.

The seminar runs from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and registration, which includes lunch is only $30.00 each. To register contact the Peterborough office of The Federal Business Development Bank at Box 1419, Peterborough or phone 705-748-3241. We look forward to seeing you there.

Rare Earth to hold public meeting

Rare Earth Resources Ltd. the company that hopes to establish Uranium Mining in the Cardiff area as a viable industry once again, have made application to the Atomic Energy Control Board to re-open their "Halo" and "Rare Earth No. 2" mine workings to assess the remaining ore contained therein. Copies of their preliminary Safety reports are on view at the municipal offices in Wilberforce, Cardiff and Kinmount and they will also hold a public information meeting at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Hall in Wilberforce on Saturday November 24th at 2:00 p.m.

The company is going to considerable lengths to remove any questions from the mind of the public as to what they are attempting to do and what the local effects may be, and those concerned about these issues owe it to themselves to avail themselves of this opportunity to become well informed.

Buyer beware

About a year ago a number of our members were approached by a Quebec firm selling light bulbs that offered a free watch just for trying their product. The scheme turned out to be an expensive way of acquiring a watch. Last week we heard from another Quebec light bulb company — namely Eclair Tec Inc. of St. Laurent, Quebec. We understand from one member that a phone call was received purported to be from Ontario Hydro recommending these items as a worth while energy saving and cost saving package. This was followed by a second call from a salesman of the company to obtain an order.

A check with Ontario Hydro confirmed that they do not recommend any specific make of lighting merchandise. A further call to the company in question eventually brought a response from their sales manager who apologized for any indiscretion that may have been shown by a member of his sales staff and he assured us that the above mentioned sales technique is not condoned by their company.

We thank this member for bringing this matter to our attention, and urge other members to do likewise if you feel uncomfortable about a product or the way in which it is being sold.

More publicity from Harvey

When you are in Toronto on business it's nice to be able to pick up a paper and read something about home. Glen Hodgson found something when we were down at the Acid Rain Conference that we have passed along to the papers here of interest. Harvey Currell has written several "Town and Country Trips" columns about the Highlands in the Toronto Sun and we were very pleased to see this very complete article on the Rail's End Gallery and how to get to it. Thanks again, Harvey.

Winter publicity

Winter business is rapidly growing in our area but it doesn't just happen. It is a result of a lot of work by many dedicated people who have helped develop facilities and events to attract visitors here in the winter. We have attempted to put as much of this information together as we could gather for our "Winter Book" which will be produced by the beginning of December this year. The Snowmobile Association have once again committed themselves to producing their very detailed Snowmobile Map in a book form. The hockey tournaments which generate such an overwhelming amount of traffic on several weekends also require a program which is printed each year. All of these projects require the support of advertisers and your support is appreciated. It may seem like there is getting to be too

Firemen still want machine

A trust account for the purchase of a "jaws of life" for the Stanhope Fire Department has been re-established. The account was opened October 12 with $2322 raised by the township's firefighters' association.

The establishment of the fund was approved at the November 1 meeting of Stanhope council.

The meeting was told that the manager at the Imperial Bank of Commerce in Minden had expressed some concern over opening an account in the name of a machine. He had indicated that there could be problems if, for example, the name of the machine was changed before the money could be used or if the brigade wanted to use the funds for the purchase of another piece of equipment.

The "jaws of life" is a hydraulically operated spreading device which has been used to help free casualties trapped in motor vehicles. The machine, which costs close to $8000, is portable and can quickly and easily push back the twisted frame of wrecked automobiles to permit access to the person trapped inside.

The Stanhope council agreed to proceed with the trust account in the "jaws" name with firefighter Harry Martin and the township deputy clerk having signing authority.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

By John Eakins, M.P.P.

No doubt many of you are aware of the David James case, the gentleman who had his driving privileges suspended illegally by the Attorney General's Ministry. A great deal of interest has been shown in this by the media all across Ontario.

I intend to continue the battle for Mr. James, for I believe he has been denied his rights and justice here in Ontario. It is simply a rip-off and blackmail to make him pay a fine of $18.00 for a speeding offence instead of serving three days in jail, as is his right under the Criminal Code of Canada, Section 646, Sub-section 5.

I shall keep you informed, for I feel strongly that the chief law officer of the Crown, the Attorney General, should be making sure that justice is not denied any citizen of this Province, especially the little people without the resources to defend themselves against such actions.

Acid rain

I know many of you are concerned about the problem of acid rain, especially in Haliburton County, and I hope to have more to say on this shortly. In the meantime, the Minister of the Environment has stated that although the technology exists to remove substances that cause acid rain from industrial emissions, high costs and the problem of what to do with the huge vats of acid that would remain stand in the way of an air pollution cleanup.

In response to a demand for action by Robert Nixon, he said: "There is a complicated problem of what to do with many things going on but - just think back a few winters to how business was then - We think it is well worth it - and you can show you do too by supporting the organizers and their publications.

CKLY reporter O.K.

We are pleased to report that we received a card this week from Barbara Vali, the young reporter from CKLY who after the Chamber meeting had a very serious accident with the CKLY van. She is finally out of the hospital and resting comfortably at her parent's home in Toronto. She expects to be back on the job in Lindsay in a few weeks and we are certainly pleased to hear she made such a full and rapid recovery.

Motorists warned to watch for deer, moose

An urgent warning to motorists to watch out for deer on southern Ontario roads has been issued by Natural Resources Minister James Auld.

More than 700 deer are killed annually on roads in the province, Mr. Auld said. Most of the deaths occur in early spring and during the October-November breeding season.

The regions of Halton, Waterloo, Brant, Hamilton-Wentworth, and Wellington County west of Metropolitan Toronto have the highest concentration of road kills in the province, with 325 deer deaths being attributed to car-deer collisions.

Gary Tupling, fish and wildlife supervisor at the Ministry of Natural Resources Cambridge office, said most of the deaths happen at night when deer are blinded by approaching headlights. He cautioned motorists to drive slower, especially at this time of year when more deer come out in the open.

"A U.S. report that says four per cent of the deer-vehicle accidents cause injuries to occupants and an average $770 in damages to the automobile, is also applicable in Ontario," said Mr. Tupling.

He said there have been so many deer kills on roads he had had to hire a man just to pick up carcasses.

"At this time of year, the casualties are mostly bucks while in the spring they are usually pregnant does," he added.

Mr. Tupling said the ministry provided the Human Ecology Foundation in Hamilton with the deer meat as well as with other freshly-killed wildlife. The Foundation supplies the meat to people in the area who cannot eat domestic animal meat because of allergies.

"If the meat is unfit for human consumption, we send it to Ontario universities that request carcasses for research purposes or dispose of it," he said.

Although most deer kills occur in southern Ontario, near Toronto, about 80 a year are reported in the ministry's Huronia District, which includes Barrie and Midland.

Carman Douglas, the regional biologist at Huntsville, said that in his area, which includes Algonquin Provincial Park, only 25 to 30 deer deaths and five or six moose deaths are reported each year.

But in Northern Ontario where moose are common, animals wandering across roads are a serious threat to motorists.

"Because not all road kills are reported, the ministry cannot get an accurate count," said Mr. Auld. "But in 1976, for instance, conservation officers reported 52 moose killed on Ontario roads with the average vehicle damage the same as in collisions with deer."

that material once it is removed from the atmosphere". Opposition members have been repeatedly asking the Minister what he'll do about Inco since a report released last month named the company as the biggest source of acid rain pollution in North America.

Mandatory car insurance

I would appreciate any comments on the recent announcement regarding mandatory car insurance. The Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations has tabled legislation to make public liability and property damage insurance mandatory for all drivers, with fines of up to $2,500 for anyone caught without insurance. Courts are empowered to suspend licences and confiscate vehicles in the case of "habitual offenders".

When 1980 licence plate stickers go on sale December 1, motorists will be required to show proof of insurance. The Minister estimates that on any given day about 350,000 motorists on the road have no insurance, either because they refuse to pay any or because they have allowed their policies to lapse. His advice to people who say they won't be able to afford car insurance when it becomes compulsory on March 1? "Get rid of your car!"

Editorial

The question of what exactly constitutes a "seasonal residence" is a problem that will become an increasing nuisance for planners, politicians and other government representatives in the coming years.

It wasn't that long ago when everyone shared an understanding of just what a seasonal residence was. In everyday language it was a cottage, probably owned by someone from a large city to the south. The use of the cottage usually began around the May 24 weekend each year. The amount of use would increase as the summer arrived, peaking at the end of July and dwindling slowly until the Thanksgiving holiday.

Since the use of the cottages only took place during a limited time each year, a seasonal residential zoning was established. Certain requirements, such as the size and type of sewage disposal, construction standards and other regulations required for permanent residences, were modified and made less stringent. The rationale appeared to be that since the cottages were not principal residences, they need not meet the standards for such buildings. Such provision seemed to be adequate as long as the cottages were only used for the limited time period each year.

The snowmobile and people's changing attitudes about the out-of-doors, especially in winter, soon changed that situation.

More and more, cottages became year-round vacation destinations. People, fed-up with the hectic city life, began to look to what were once only summer homes, with new interest. They talked of retiring to their cottage or forsaking the city altogether and moving to the cottage on a permanent basis.

Those who did not make the relocation, winterized their summer cottages. Conveniences, such as those in their dwellings in the larger centres were added. Before long most of what had only been summer residences, now were being used 12 months of the year. In a number of cases the so-called cottages had become the principal residences of the owners.

Lost in the increased use of the cottages was the original intention of the seasonal residential zoning under which the structures had been built. The term "seasonal" had never been clearly defined, because when it was first coined there was little contention as to exactly what season the word referred. But it is probably fair to assume that the planners had intended to make a distinction between the casual use of the property and the more permanent type of residency that appears to be taking place.

The fact that cottages zoned for seasonal use are increasingly being used for permanent residences is more than a difference in semantics.

Increasingly local councils are being faced with requests for permission to construct cottages, that in the end will probably become permanent dwelling units. In Stanhope township recently an Ontario Municipal Board ruling stated that permanent homes would not be permitted on private roads. However the OMB has allowed a by-law to stand which would permit the year-round use of seasonal residences, even if they are located on private rights-of-way.

The creation of permanent residences where once only cottages were permitted should be a matter of serious concern. While this sort of development may be welcomed in the county, it should not be allowed to happen under a zoning that permits buildings which do not meet the minimum standards set for permanent structures. To allow this to happen would be to fly in the face of orderly development of the county's recreational facilities.

What is needed is a complete review of the zoning classification "seasonal residential" with a more succinct definition of the terms.

We don't object to people turning their cottages into permanent homes if the structures meet the standards set down for such dwelling units. However, such changes should not be allowed without either a change in zoning or some process whereby the cottage owners must show their seasonal residence is suitable to be used as a permanent dwelling.

Fighting the wrong war?

By Jean Lachance

The world is changing so fast, it's hard to come to grips with it on a day to day basis.

Besides, what can you and I do about inflation, high interest rates, and chronic unemployment? Not very much.

I suppose we can listen to the government when it tells us to "Buy Canadian" to help keep jobs for Canadians. Or we can listen to the Governor of the Bank of Canada when he tells us that high interest rates are necessary to "wrestle inflation to the ground."

Jean Lachance is Public Affairs Officer for the Canadian Federation of Independent Business

So we listen. But who is the government listening to? Where do the mandarins take their advice from to draft our overall economic policies?

Take job creation for instance. According to a study conducted by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, small and medium-sized businesses with fewer than 20 employees created an astounding 59% of all new jobs in this country between 1971 and 1977, while accounting for only 30% of total employment.

In the U.S., a recent study by the prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology conforms with the Canadian experience: 66% of new jobs created between 1969 and 1976 were generated by firms with fewer than 20 employees.

Japan, the economic and industrial miracle, has released authoritative statistics showing that between 1970 and 1977 firms with fewer than 30 employees accounted for 58% of new jobs in the country although this sector represented only 38% of all jobs in the country.

Yet, our governments seem to cling to the basic tenets of neo-classical economic theories of "economies of scale" on the basis that productivity is a direct function of size.

In the light of staggering increases in transportation and energy costs, how long will it be before the concentration of business activity in larger and larger units becomes counter productive in economic terms? How long before it creates captive markets, restricts competition and consumer choice?

There are some fundamental shifts occurring in the world which will eventually mean the creation of more community and regional enterprises to serve local markets.

Could it be that the economic wizards our governments are listening to are, like most generals in war, one theory behind?

As far as our job-hungry world is concerned, one thing appears certain: bigger is not necessarily better.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT

by William C. Scott, M.P.

Some time in the spring, Quebecers will be asked in a province-wide referendum to give to the Government of Quebec the mandate to negotiate a "new deal" between Quebec and the rest of Canada, an arrangement the P.C. Government calls "sovereignty-association".

On November 1, the Quebec Government published its white paper on Sovereignty-Association, (sub titled "a proposal for a new partnership between equals"), in which it outlined in more detail than it has previously made public exactly what it means by sovereignty-association.

The white paper proposes that Quebec should become a sovereign state and claim for itself all the powers of a sovereign state, and that the present federal system in Quebec be replaced by an association with the rest of Canada. The emergence of Quebec as a sovereign state and the form that this association with Canada should take will be the result of negotiations between Quebec and Canada.

A sovereign Quebec will have the sole power to levy all taxes, to make all laws, and to be present on the international scene in any way it wishes. The only laws that will apply in Quebec territory will be those of Quebec's National Assembly and the only taxes that will be levied will be those decreed by Quebec. Quebec will retain any existing federal laws it wants, but they will be amended, repealed or replaced as this is felt necessary.

Sovereignty, according to the White Paper, means that Quebec will have an "inalienable" right to its own present provincial territory. The white paper also makes oblique references to "gaining the advantages that would come to Quebec from its geographical position" and — "ending the uncertainties that have surrounded the issue...of Labrador". This would seem

Belgian student finds Canada friendly and big

Most Canadians realize they live in a big country, but it isn't until one talks to someone from one of the smaller European nations that the vastness of our nation becomes evident.

Jean Paul Despeaux, a student from Belgium who is spending a year in Minden, says that one of the most "confusing" things about Canada is the distance between places. "At home we travel 15 kilometres and will pass through several villages or settlements. Here you can travel for many kilometers more without seeing a single house."

The spatial differences is just one of the many new things Jean Paul has experienced in his two and a half month stay here. He is participating in a student exchange program sponsored by Rotary International. The Minden Rotary Club is taking part in the program and has sponsored the visit of Lorraine Perry of Ingoldsby to Belgium. As part of their participation in the program, the club then plays host to an overseas visitor.

(Readers will recall that The Times is reprinting excerpts from letters sent home by Lorraine. During the first portion of her stay in Belgium she is living with Jean Paul's family.)

Jean Paul is a native of Sombreffe, a rural community of about 2500 people some 60 kilometres south of the Belgian capital, Brussels. His hometown lies in a rich agricultural area.

He arrived in Canada August 26 and has integrated quickly and easily into the Canadian way of life. While here he is staying with members of the local Rotary Club, which gives Jean Paul an ideal opportunity to experience Canadian family life first hand.

In addition, he has enrolled at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School where he is taking a number of grade 13 courses.

Jean Paul is a graduate of the secondary school system in Belgium, but still finds the courses at HHSS challenging. "I am particularly interested in Canadian history and geography," he comments, noting that the subjects provide him with a great deal of information on the country which has become his home for a year. He is also studying English, family studies, music and physical education. Jean Paul is a member of the stage band at the high school and plays the guitar and drums.

Language was not a serious problem for Jean Paul, and indeed was one of the reasons he first expressed an interest in taking part in the exchange program. He speaks French and Flemish, the native languages of Belgium, and is fluent in German and English. He is also studying Spanish.

"I wanted to come to Canada to improve the English which I learned in school," Jean Paul states. He finds that he is able to understand the teachers at the high school and can easily carry a conversation on a one-to-one basis. "However, when I'm in a group and everyone is talking at once, it is difficult to take it all in," he notes.

In some cases the amount of reading required for the various high school courses has also proven to be a burden, although he has found his ability to cope with English has improved a great deal in the time he has been here.

His interest in languages is not purely academic. When he returns to Belgium, Jean Paul intends to apply for entrance to an interpreter or translator school located in Brussels. One of the main reasons for his interest in Canada was to give him the opportunity to practise and polish his English in a natural setting.

"Brussels is the headquarters for the European Economic Community," he notes, "and so there are many job opportunities for those who speak the languages of the various countries. There are also some very prestigious translation schools there and in Switzerland, I hope to enroll in one of them when I return."

During his stay in Minden Jean Paul has been recording the local scenes on film. Like just about everyone with a camera, he found the colourful autumn period to be a highlight of his visit so far. "I have never seen leaves with so many colours," he commented. "In Belgium the leaves simply turn brown and fall from the trees."

Jean Paul is also looking forward with anticipation to the Canadian winter. "In Belgium the winter is variable with a great deal of rain and cool weather. Sometimes we have snow, but it rarely stays on the ground for more than a few days." He has been forewarned by his hosts about the conditions to expect here and is awaiting the winter weather he has heard so much about.

The Belgian native has found Canadian food to be tasty but not unique. He notes that most of the dishes served here he has tried before at home and says that European cooking includes a wider variety of food, especially seafood.

He also notes the difference in attitude toward the consumption of alcohol, especially by teenagers. "In Belgium we do not have an age limit for the consumption of alcohol, and children, within a family setting, drink wine and beer as part of the normal daily life. Here with the specific age limit set by the government, there seems to be a completely different attitude," he comments.

Jean Paul also notes that in Belgium the minimum age for licenced drivers is 18, as compared to 16 in Ontario. "Owning a car is still a luxury in Belgium," he notes. "The communities are close together and there is excellent rail and bus service to most areas, so there is less urgency in owning a car." He points out that if he needs to use a car he can rely on the familiar North American custom of borrowing the family auto.

During his stay in Canada he will be visiting a number of places, including Niagara Falls, Toronto, Ottawa and historical sites throughout the region. He has already visited northern Quebec and is hoping to stop in Montreal and Quebec City before returning to Belgium next summer.

"I am enjoying my stay here very much," Jean Paul comments. "I am getting to know the people and have made a number of friends."

College searches for course suggestions

The search is on.

In anticipation of the start of a new round of winter courses in mid-January, Blanche Turner, program organizer for women's courses with Sir Sandford Fleming College in Haliburton, has started to look for ideas that might be of interest to women in the Minden area. A main part of her search involves trying to discover what might interest the women of the area.

"We had a selection of seven possible courses when the fall program began," she noted, "but only three of them drew enough interest to proceed." Those that are currently underway include macrame, being taught by Darlene Johnson in Carnarvon, squash, by Faye Schonhoffer in Haliburton and indoor gardening with Pat Campbell in Minden.

The four courses that did not get off the ground this fall include discussion for women, wild game and fish cookery, playing and learning together, and new options for women.

"I really don't know why these did not attract enough participants," Blanche commented. "I had expected, in particular, that the wild game cookery would have been popular, but there just wasn't enough interest."

Pat Campbell demonstrates the arranging of a terrarium during the Sir Sandford Fleming College indoor gardening course in Minden. The course was one of three offered specifically for women this fall by the college.

She notes that one of the purposes of the extra push for courses oriented to women, is to give mothers, who may feel caught at home, a weekly outing. "Because of the responsibilities of the home, especially when children are small, mothers often find it difficult to get out," she said. "We would like to offer more day-time courses with babysitting facilities so we can meet the needs of this group of people."

Blanche also points out that although the courses are designed with women in mind, there is no reason that men, who might be interested, cannot take part.

Part of the thrust in attempting to encourage mothers of young children to get involved is the provision of babysitting service during the course. "We have an excellent facility in the basement of the United Church in Minden," she points out. "The room can be easily divided and there are facilities for the care of younger children in the same building." Blanche notes that the babysitting service provided by the college is charged at a very low rate, $5 for the entire course. "That works out to less than $1 per class for 6 to 8 session courses," Blanche noted.

The co-ordinator said she would be willing to organize a course in almost any area if there is enough interest. "The women might be interested in cooking or crafts, country living, discussion groups on such topics as raising children or returning to the workforce, carpentry, auto mechanics, income tax workshops, the list is endless."

She indicated that the range and variety of courses really depended on the interest of those taking part from the community. "We are willing to attempt a course if enough people indicate they would be willing to attend," she commented.

Blanche is also looking for instructors or people with special talents who might be interested in heading a class.

"Of course, it is impossible to meet every request," she commented, but we can't give it a try if we don't know what people are interested in."

Suggestions for courses can be directed to Blanche at the college campus in Haliburton by calling 457-1680.

5 accidents blamed on snow

The second snow storm of the season has been blamed by Ontario Provincial Police for a series of five accidents which took place last Thursday morning. The five mishaps resulted in $17,000 damage to the vehicles. All the accidents were single vehicle mishaps. None of the drivers was seriously injured.

The first to be reported to police occurred at 7 o'clock Thursday morning. Kenneth Lemay, 35, of R. R. 2 Janetville, was driving a Bell Canada van easterly on Highway 121 when he lost control of the vehicle and it rolled into the north ditch. Damage was estimated at $5000. The investigating officer was Constable Brian Dunham.

Police were called to the Old Bobcaygeon Road Minden at about 8 o'clock

Thursday morning to investigate a single car mishap. Jennifer Anderson, 18, of R. R. 2 Minden was the driver of the car which, travelling south along the roadway, entered the east ditch and rolled onto its side in a creek. Damage was estimated at $2500. Constable Mike Legge investigated.

Jody Ainsworth, 19, of Haliburton was the driver of a 1975 van which left Highway 530 at approximately 8:50 Thursday morning and rolled over into the north ditch. The mishap caused $1000 damage. Constable Brian Dunham investigated.

At the same time, on Highway 35 near Minden, a vehicle driven by Janine Kellett, 17, of R.R. 2 Minden left the roadway and struck some stones in the east ditch. The accident resulted in $1500 damage. OPP officer Mike Legge investigated the accident.

A car driven by John J. Moynihan of St. Louis, Missouri struck the same rock cut twice Thursday morning before finally coming to rest shortly after noon. Moynihan had been travelling north on Highway 121 in Cardiff township when the vehicle left the road and struck a rock cut on the west side of the road. The car spun around and struck the same rock cut again. Damage to the 1979 model car was estimated at $7000. Constable Brian Dunham was the investigating officer.

Parliament Hill Report

to suggest that a sovereign Quebec would claim Labrador, which is now part of the Province of Newfoundland.

In the matter of citizenship, every resident of Quebec will become a Quebec citizen and every Canadian who was born in Quebec will have an automatic right to Quebec citizenship if he or she returns to live there. There will be separate Quebec passports for Quebec citizens but an agreement with Canada for a common passport is suggested.

The white paper proposes that Quebec's continued association with Canada in any areas will be achieved as a result of negotiations resulting in a Treaty of Association. This treaty will govern how this association will work and will establish the rules and institutions that will ensure the proper functioning of the Quebec - Canada community.

There will be no customs barrier between Quebec and Canada and the two countries will jointly establish the tariffs needed for dealing with other states. The two states will also permit the present free market to operate between them and will not discriminate against each other's product. There will be a monetary union in which both countries will continue to use the same currency. There will be a free circulation of people between the two states, which means that there will not be border guards and that a passport to go from one state to the other will not be required.

Prime Minister Clark responded to the Quebec white paper by saying that he felt that direct federal government involvement in the referendum would probably not be useful and that the people of Quebec must first make their feelings known in the referendum. He said that the federal government has an obligation to be open and flexible and demonstrate that federalism can be renewed; that the attitude and approach of the new Conservative government in Ottawa has changed.

He also reiterated that the legal position is that Quebec under the B.N.A. Act cannot unilaterally leave the Canadian federation, but that the evidence is that the "hard" separation question will not be asked.

Local officers called to assist

While Haliburton County residents watched on television as the events unfolded this past weekend in Mississauga, at least four members of the community took an active part in the emergency.

Constables Al Barnes, Gary Chapman, Weldon Popp and Jim Solway were drafted by the Ontario Provincial Police central command to assist with sealing off the affected area. The officers were involved in maintaining road blocks on the perimeter of the evacuated area while Peel Regional Police patrolled within the community itself.

The four constables left here Sunday evening to join the massive force in the Mississauga area.

A second group of four officers was called to the scene Monday, but they returned to Minden as their service was not required.

The officers reported the strange and eerie sensation experienced as they drove along a major highway leading toward the disaster area. The six lane thoroughfare they travelled on was void of cars and an unnatural quiet hung over the deserted streets of the community.

Rev. David Barker of the Anglican Church in Minden gave Communion in the Chapel on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Agnes Taylor played the organ for us while we sang some inspiring hymns.

In the afternoon, several residents went to the auditorium to watch the movies. "Antarctic Crossing" was a very good film taking us on an expedition to the South Pole.

"Sit Down, Sit Danish" was a film presented by the Danish Furniture Manufacturers. They showed us all the different styles of modern furniture and how it is made.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. Brown, the administrator at Hyland Crest, sat in our fun and fitness program. He joined in on the exercises, and was pleased with our new opening song. He has asked me to pass it on to the readers. It is sung to the tune of "The Great Speckled Bird" and the words were written by yours truly.

"Here we are once again at fun and fitness

Where we kick the ball and play a game or two

In our home here at Hyland Crest in Minden What a happy place to be for me and you."

We had a very enjoyable afternoon on Wednesday, when we were entertained by The Happy Wanderers, from Coboconk. This group of people formed a choir about eight years ago and have been coming to Hyland Crest, once or twice a year ever since. This was a special visit in honour of Lil Rawlins retirement. They presented her with a lovely gift, and they sang a special song to her, which one of the members had composed. We would like to share it with you.

The Happy Wanderers
By Ivy Boyce

Yes, we are Happy Wanderers

To Minden Town we came

To sing at the home upon the hill

And spread some joy around.

We like to sing to all

we meet

Be they red, black, white or brown

But Lil's the one who invites us up

To dear old Minden town.

But now Aunt Lil is leaving here

Her work of love fulfilled

Her soft sweet voice and tender smile

Will linger with us still.

We hope your days will happy be

With memories fond and true

The kindness you have lavished here

Will surely come to you.

We at Hyland Crest love Aunt Lil and miss her being here every day, but we're glad to have her with us on Mondays when she works as a volunteer.

Thursday afternoon, the L.O.B.A. ladies from Minden served a lovely variety of goodies at the tea party. This is the one event that everyone takes part in and enjoys every week.

Men's hockey season opens

Men's recreational hockey started Monday evening at the Minden Community Arena. Four teams have been entered in the league this season with two games scheduled for each Monday evening.

In the first contest Home Hardware defeated Halls Insurance 7 - 1. Goal getters for Home Hardware included Mark Derry from Kevin Newell; Newell unassisted;

In the second game the Rockcliffe Hotel downed Hartwick Construction by a close 5-4 margin. Scoring for Hartwick were Rick Hartwick with two, the first assisted by Tony Labarge; Peter Pearson from Myles Gartshore; Tony Labarge unassisted. Scorers for Rockcliffe Hotel were Bill Leary from Shane McKelvey; Dean Hewitt from Larry Sawyer; Randy Cole from Wayne Hutchinson and Larry Sawyer; Shane McKelvey from John McAdman; and Larry Sawyer from Ted Vasey and Randy Cole.

Hockey action

Doug Pearce, goalie for the Hall's Insurance team in the men's recreational hockey league grabs for the puck following a shot by Dave Dollo (white helmet). The action was part of the first game of the season, Monday, at the Minden arena. Hall's Insurance went down to a 7-1 defeat at the sticks of the Home Hardware team.

Huskies win two

Scoring three goals in one minute and 34 seconds of the third period, the Haliburton Huskies of the OHA Junior D Circuit, steamed ahead of Bancroft to take the Saturday night game 8-5. The Huskies were down 5-3 when the three goal effort gave them the edge and momentum to carry them on to the win.

The Huskies opened the scoring at 13:34 of the first frame with Kevin Noseworthy connecting off a pass from Kevin O'Hara and Chris Hodgson. However, before the period ended, the Bancroft squad had moved into a two goal edge on markers from Rupnow and Charbonneau.

Haliburton again opened the scoring in the second period, Dean Potter scoring on a pass from Joe Roberts at 6:34. Bancroft responded at 11:40 with Dave Brown tallying for Haliburton from Roberts and Jerry Campbell at 14:17. Another goal from Tomlin of Bancroft gave the visitors a 4-3 edge at the end of the second period.

Bancroft extended their lead at the opening of the third period with Fransky scoring at 3:25. The Huskies then broke loose with a flurry of three goals, Kevin O'Hara scoring at the eight minute mark from Roberts and Hodgson, O'Hara again at 9:19 from Dave Brown and Joe Roberts at 9:34 from Bill Hogg and Mike Rae. O'Hara picked up another from Dave Brown at 14:47 and Mike Rae added the final for the Haliburton team at the 15:39 mark. Assists on the final goal went to Brian Lloyd and Hodgson.

Down Lakefield

The Huskies continued their winning ways Sunday as they defeated Lakefield at the Haliburton arena, 5-3.

While the Lakefield team opened the scoring, it did not take the Huskies long to regain control of the game and dominate it to the final buzzer. The Lakefield goal came at the 5:42 mark from Armstrong. Mike Rae responded for Haliburton at 15:55. Joe Roberts and Steve Davies picking up the assists. The Huskies netted a power play goal at 18:32, Dave Brown tallying from Steve Davies and Ed Roberts. Just 12 seconds later Brian Lloyd moved Haliburton into a commanding lead. The assists on the marker went to Mike Rae and Kevin Noseworthy.

Steve Davies grabbed the first goal for the Huskies in the second frame, scoring at the 10:42 mark on a pass from Mike Rae and Dave Brown. Haliburton tallied again at 13:30 with Ed Roberts doing the honours and Brown picking up another assist.

In the final stanza, Lakefield struggled to regain the lead but was unable to overcome the Husky dominance. The visitors scored on a power-play at 3:53 and added a second at 14:29. The Huskies held the drive and the teams retired to the dressing rooms with a 5-3 edge on the scoreboard for the Huskies.

The referee called 22 minutes in penalties against the Huskies while Lakefield was assessed 26 minutes.

The Huskies travel to Bewdley tonight (November 14) and host the Lakefield Chiefs again this coming Saturday evening. Game time at the Haliburton arena is 8 p.m.

Is the public becoming too sensitive to the hazards of environmental contaminants? The flurry of controversy over the disposal of liquid industrial wastes, especially PCB's, raised the interesting dilemma of how to reduce the risks of these contaminants in a less-than-perfect world.

PCB's, or polychlorinated biphenyls, are one of the most persistent chemicals created by industrial man. Widely used in electrical transformers and other equipment, they gradually escaped into the environment and spread through our waterways and even through the air. Because they are so stable, they accumulated rapidly through the food chain, and reached hazardous levels in many species of fish. Gulls and terns began to suffer deformities and reproductive failures linked to high levels of PCB's, and concerns about human health effects were raised.

As a result, PCB's are being banned in Canada and existing uses phased out. But we are left with a very serious disposal problem of at least 60 - 70,000 gallons of PCB-contaminated wastes sitting in storage around Ontario waiting for disposal. Right now, there are no legal means of getting rid of this hazardous material - its owners cannot bury it, burn it, or even ship it to the U.S.A. for disposal. Containers leak, spills occur, and the risk of illegal dumping increases dramatically as the storage time for PCB's drags on interminably.

Against this backdrop, the Ministry of Environment has proposed the destruction of these materials by high temperature burning in a Mississauga cement kiln. Previous test burns have shown destruction of PCB's to be either complete or very close to complete at these temperatures. But the citizens of Mississauga, and their local elected representatives, appear to have panicked at the mere thought of such disposal, opposing even further test burns by every method available.

Ironically, Mississauga seems prepared to accept the substantial risks of long-term storage of PCB's, but not the small unproven risks associated with its final destruction. The public fear of PCB's is so great that the rallying cry of communities around potential disposal sites appears to be a resounding "not-in-my-back-yard."

The Federation of Ontario Naturalists maintains that the interests of society at large must come ahead of such short-sightedness. The views of Mississauga should be heard, but all those concerned about environmental protection have a responsibility not to endlessly prolong debate while both PCB's and the risks associated with their storage accumulate even higher. At some point, hopefully soon, a decision on disposal must be taken, and those affected should have the grace to accept that decision with maturity and understanding.

Monday, (November 3) the Minden pee wees travelled to Manvers. The pee wees were able to manage a 2-2 tie against their hosts. Scoring for Minden were Kevin Cowen from Greg Newell and Paul Walker from Newell. Andrew Burk turned in a steady game between the pipes for the Minden team.

The local squad played host to Bobcaygeon Saturday afternoon and again the game ended in a 2-2 tie. Mike Gorveatt scored both of the markers for the Minden team with John Ballantyne and Kevin Cowen assisting on the second effort.

Bantam

The bantams split their two games during the past week of play losing to Manvers Monday evening (November 3). The host squad took the visitors by a 2-1 margin. Andy Shapiera was the lone goal scorer for Minden.

Saturday afternoon the Minden bantams out scored the visitors from Omemece, taking them by a 3-2 edge. Tim Wood and Robbie McLeod were the marksmen for Minden in the first frame. Scott Hamilton scored in the second period to give the Minden squad the edge. The Omemece team pulled their goalie in the final minutes of the last period but were unable to penetrate the hometown defenses to even the score.

Midget

The first game for the Minden midgets ended in a 3-3 tie when they met Omemece Saturday afternoon at the Minden Arena. Scoring for Minden were Ivan Ingram with help from Andy Pristol, Dave Lennie from Shaun Chapman and Rick Beeney from Ingram.

Juvenile

It was a busy week for the juvenile team as they planned three games, winning two and losing the third.

Wednesday evening the team played in Manvers where they defeated their hosts 9-5. Shaun Silvers captured a hat trick for the Minden team.

The second win of the week came Friday evening as the team played host to Bobcaygeon and outgunned the visitors by a 5-1 score. Notching the markers for Minden were Kim Hamilton (unassisted), Tim Davies, Greg Carpenter, Butch Manery, and Les Booth. Assists were awarded to Ted Pilcher (2), Warren Mann, Roger Hicks, Tim Davies and Dave Shapiera.

The loss came at the hands of Oakwood Saturday night where the juveniles lost 6-4.

Because of the large number of juvenile aged players the tri-county midget team has been dissolved and a second juvenile team formed. We are looking forward to some interesting action when these two teams meet.

Atom

The Minden atoms also had 2 games this week. Friday night they travelled to Manvers and came away with a 4-0 win. Scoring for Minden were Tom MacLeod with 2 and Shane Burch and Dwaine Cooper with 1 each.

On Saturday the Little Britain team came to town and defeated Minden 1 - 0. Minden had many chances around the net but could just not find the mark. Minden's Corey Davies was ousted from the game in the 1st period when he received a major penalty for cross checking above the shoulders.

Tri-county Novice

The Minden novices continued their exhibition season with a game in Haliburton on Saturday. After an evenly matched game the score ended Haliburton 4 Minden 2. The goal scorers for Minden were Jeff Francis and Scott Russell.

Bantam

The Tri-county bantams tangled with a tough Fenelon Falls team twice this week.

Busy goalmouth

The action is hot and heavy around the Minden Tri-county bantam net as the goalie and players attempt to repel a Fenelon Falls attack. Fenelon went on to defeat the local squad 14-3.

First on Wednesday night in Fenelon Falls where they went down to defeat 6 - 0. Then on Sunday in Minden where the visitors trounced Minden 14-3. Minden's goals were scored by Kevin Forbes with 2 and Larry Miscio with 1. Assists on the plays went to Scott Danilko, Forbes, Miscio and Daryl Ward.

Midget

On Wednesday, the

Minden midgets also travelled to Fenelon Falls. Here they had to settle for a 4-4 tie. Then in Lakefield on Sunday night they also tied, this time 8 - 8.

90 run cross country circuit

The third annual Haliburton County Cross-country race was held at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, on October 31, 1979.

Approximately 90 runners competed over the mile and one-quarter distance. Cross-country running is a team and an individual event. Each school is allowed to enter eight runners per age group, of which five runners count towards the team's overall point standing. The runners receive a ticket at the finish of the race indicating their placement. At the completion of each race, the five lowest finishers, for each team, have their standing tabulated. The school with the lowest overall total, for the four age groups, is declared the winner.

The individual winners for "A" schools were: junior girls - Lindsay Toshlin, Haliburton; junior boys - Doug Schell, Minden; senior girls - Heidi Toshlin, Haliburton; and senior boys - Kirk Thayer, Haliburton.

Upon tabulation of all four teams from Haliburton, a total of 132 points were amassed - junior girls (25), junior boys (42), senior girls (21), and senior boys (44). The tabulation of points for the Minden team broke down as follows: junior girls (39), junior boys (21), senior girls (53), and senior boys (25), for a team total of 138 points.

Along the Trails

by Roy Bates

The Hanover Snowmobile Club has adopted the temporary membership principle as a means to encourage residents of the area and patrons of area motels to make voluntary contributions to the club's trail maintenance program. This may be the first club in Ontario to adopt such a policy. I am sure it will not be the last.

It was some nineteen months ago that the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs presented to the Ministry of Natural Resources and the Ministry of Transportation and Communication a comprehensive policy proposal built around the user pays concept. In that proposal it was recommended that: the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act be amended to remove the inference that club-maintained public trails should be "free" trails; that clubs maintaining trails and having membership "open" to the public should be designated and registered as "public clubs"; that access to the trails provided by such clubs should be restricted to members of such clubs with full reciprocity between such clubs; that a short term membership fee structure (daily or weekly or both) be adopted by such public clubs to accommodate occasional trail users; and that legislation be written to support such trail policy and to provide a viable in-club policing formula.

It is noteworthy that the only parts of that proposal that actually required government action are, the first in regard to the interpretation of "Public Trail," and the latter in regard to policing authority. All of the rest concerns membership policy which the government does not, and should not attempt to regulate.

It has long been recognized that the Ontario Government's current trails policy and club assistance funding program is not truly supportive of the club effort. By turning the trails of participating clubs into free riding opportunities for the general public, and by stressing development of connecting links and corridor routes to attract the snowmobiling tourist, the program actually discourages club growth and restricts a club's ability to expand its trail effort.

Since trail assistance funding is designed to assist only, and now covers barely one-third of trail maintenance costs, clubs are being forced to adopt alternate funding formulas - or throw in the towel.

The Hanover Snowmobile Club is showing us the way to go. That club has taken the Federation's proposal and adopted it on a voluntary basis firmly believing that the majority of trail users will respond. And I, too, believe they will.

What is important here is that one club - and I hope there will be more - has chosen not to wait for Government action and, faced with dwindling resources, has taken the measures which it sees as most reasonable to meet the club's immediate needs.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. The Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs welcomes this opportunity provided at Hanover to put its policy proposal to the acid test. I believe it will be a successful exercise. Not totally, perhaps, for the Hanover club will meet with a few un-responsive trail riders, but successful enough to show the Government that we do mean to get on with the business of developing snowmobile trails and to prove that the user pays principle, properly formulated, will work.

News from the Guild

(by Carole McLean)

We are finding more and more that people are making their own gifts for Christmas and other occasions during the year. The movement to crafts has been spurred by the growing concern over the economy and a renewed interest in the crafts which were once commonly practised throughout the country.

For those not involved in crafts, the Guild of Fine Arts provides three opportunities during the year for the public to purchase the work of others who are. Not only do these sales provide revenue for our local artisans, they provide a showcase for their work and may stimulate interest and participation by other members of the public in the craft.

This year our Christmas sale begins November 20 at 10 a.m. The sale will be held at the Rail's End Gallery in Haliburton and will continue until December 1. The gallery will be open each day until 4 p.m., Fridays until 9 p.m. It will be closed Sundays.

An invitation
If you have helped in anyway during the past year you are invited to the gallery on Wednesday, November 21 to an evening get-together.

Bill Hodge, president of the Ontario Craft Council, will give a slide presentation on the World Craft Conference held in Japan. This will take place at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by a social hour with sherry and fruit cake. This is your invitation — see you there.

Pottery group
There have been a few setbacks this year within the pottery workshop, the main ones have been mechanical. I've been assured by Barb Bolin of Sir Sandford Fleming that the problems will be cleared up by November 19.

The other problem has been the glaze master — namely myself. Hopefully this is one problem that will be corrected this coming week.

Ron Roy, a renowned potter, has consented to hold a glaze workshop. This is of vital importance as I lack practical as well as trained experience in this field. So fellow potters, hang in there, things are bound to improve.

Weavers and spinners
This year the group has been studying colour and making a color gump. Julie Gray was the guest speaker Monday evening, November 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the gallery. Donna VanderWekken's dye workshop was a success and another is planned for the spring. Yarns can be purchased from Margit Moraal in Blairhampton - 286-1882.

Arrival of refugees 4 months away

It could be a four month wait before the refugees sponsored by groups in our area actually arrive here.

This information was supplied by Mrs. Joan Beck, who is one of the settlement consultants for the Ministry of Culture and Recreation, serving the Peterborough area. Mrs. Beck was speaking at the October general meeting of the Haliburton County Social Planning Council in the West Guilford Community Centre.

The assembly also heard detailed remarks by Mr. Alan Vallillee who is the area manager of Children's Services. He explained how the following community services have been established under one government Ministry during the last two years. These services are now available to our population: (a) children's mental health (b) child welfare service (c) day nurseries (d) juvenile correction training schools (e) observation of detention homes, and (f) children's mental health retardation services.

The public is always welcome to attend the general meetings of Social Planning in Haliburton County, the next one being scheduled for Wednesday, November 21st 9:30 p.m. at Dysart et al Municipal Chambers. The theme for the meeting will be: project prospects for 1980.

Death & children seminar topic

A seminar on death, bereavement and the child will be held next Thursday in Peterborough. The all day session will open to the general public and will feature a number of speakers who have worked with the bereaved and studied the various social and psychological aspects of the passing of a loved one.

The seminar is sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Funeral Service Association in recognition of the International Year of the Child.

A spokesman for the seminar indicated that the program will not deal with funeral services but rather such topics as explaining death to children, and the psychological impacts to children and the family.

The seminar will be held at the Wenjack Theatre, Trent University on November 22. The fee for the seminar has been set at $25, which includes the lunch and conference materials. Anyone wishing more information on the seminar can contact the local representative of the association, Gord Monk at 286-2181.

by Jeanne Sears

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Carol Harding (O'Neill), Ruby Cowen and Norman Martin who passed away since last week.

At the weekly mini card party at St. Paul's Parish Hall last Thursday afternoon winners were for cribbage: Gladys Wruth and Cora Hewitt and for euchre lone hands Jeanne Sears and Agnes Taylor and Mary McKelvey. These games are for anyone in the village and start at 1:30 sharp every Thursday afternoon.

All her friends send good wishes to Mrs. Bob Pratt who was a patient at the local hospital.
